Strong Arms To Intervene In Balkans Complication

Decision of the Powers Eases the Situation in Europe.

STOCKS RALLY FROM SLUMP

Turkey Willing to Acknowledge That Reforms Are Needed in Macedonia and May Grant It a More Generous Measure of Home Rule—Ottoman Ultimatum to Demand Removal of Bulgarian Troops From Frontier.

London, Oct. 8.—The reported decision of the powers to intervene in the Balkans has given a more optimistic tone to the troublesome situation. This is reflected in the exchanges of Europe, where stocks in general have rallied from the slump of last week.

It is now believed that all the powers are in concord in their demand for peace in the Balkans. Representation will be made at once to Constantinople to that effect. At the Turkish capital all the powers will meet to present individually a verbal communication to the porte identical to that to be presented to the Balkan states by Russia and Austria.

The powers, it is known, will state emphatically their disapproval of any fighting in the Balkans and will demand that the little states leave to them any Macedonian reforms that are to be made.

Largely responsible for the optimism of the diplomats as to the Turkish situation is the new attitude of Turkey. Turkey seems willing to acknowledge that reforms are needed in Macedonia, and that she may be willing to grant a more generous measure of self-government to Rumania and Macedonia.

But in spite of all this prevailing cheer, war is not by any means out of the question as yet. It is reported Turkey will deliver an ultimatum to the Balkan states in the immediate future. This will demand that Bulgaria send back her troops from the border or be prepared to fight within 24 hours.

Greeks Attack Turkish Vessel.
Berlin, Oct. 8.—A steamship with many Turkish passengers aboard has been stormed by Greeks in the Piraeus. Several men were badly beaten and a number of women dragged from the vessel and mistreated, according to the Turkish embassy here.

Would You Think It?

Columbus, O., Oct. 8.—Statistics compiled by Registrar Shearer of the state automobile department show that in Ohio one person out of every 77 owns an automobile. This places the average ownership of automobiles in this state far above the average maintained in the country at large. In but two states, according to the latest figures, are more autos owned than in Ohio—New York and Pennsylvania.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Returns compiled show that all records for first day's registration in Chicago were broken Saturday, when 291,770 voters enrolled their names on the registry lists.

Government Says Others Will Follow Clark's Example.

DEFENSE TAKEN BY SURPRISE

District Attorney Endeavors to Connect St. Louis Man With Explosions at Cincinnati, Steubenville, Buffalo and Other Places—Plot to Blow Up the Locks of the Panama Canal Also Alleged.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 8.—The action of Edward Clark, Cincinnati business agent of the structural iron workers' union, in changing his plea from not guilty to guilty at the dynamite conspiracy trial, came as a complete surprise to the defense. Prosecutor Miller smiled at the defense counsel table with a distinct air of having scored a victory.

The government freely predicted that others of the iron workers would follow Clark's example. Counsel for the defense, however, were positive that there would be no more pleas of guilty.

An ivory-handled silk umbrella bearing the initials "E. C." found in the wreckage of a dynamited bridge at Dayton, O., Mr. Miller said, led to the disclosure that Clark actually had caused the explosion, having used the umbrella to protect the dynamite from the rain, then leaving it behind. Clark also was charged with carrying out plots against employers of non-union labor.

The district attorney took up the alleged connection of Philipa Cooley of New Orleans with the dynamiting operations. He said that Cooley was a member of the executive board when $1,000 a month was set aside for the use of J. J. McNamara in paying dynamiting expenses. Also he read a letter alleged to have been written by Cooley to McNamara concerning the big iron jobs in New Orleans. This letter, it is charged, says about $250 would be necessary and adds: "We have some good fellows here who could do the trick and get away with it."

Charles Beaum of Minneapolis, Mr. Miller said, would be shown by the evidence to have obtained some of the alarm clocks for the infernal machines used by the conspiracy. These alarm clocks were obtained at Winnipeg, Canada, said Mr. Miller. Some were found in the basement of the American Central Life building, where J. J. McNamara was arrested.

Designs on Panama Canal?

Pages from the careers of the McNamaras and Ortie E. McNamagal as leaders of the flying squadron of dynamiters, with conversations in which they are said to have plotted to send McNamagal to Panama to blow up the locks of the Panama canal, were read by Miller. The incident in reference to Panama, Mr. Miller said, occurred just before the arrest of the Los Angeles dynamiters, when they were becoming desperate in their efforts to secure explosives without betraying their identity.

The McClintock-Marshall Constructing company, an open-shop concern, built the locks.

Taking up the alleged relations of John H. Barry of St. Louis with the conspiracy, Mr. Miller said Barry served as a member of the auditing committee at a time when explosions had just been pulled off in Boston, Hoboken, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Steubenville and other places, the payment for these having been made out of the union funds.

Not to Take Over Big Plant.

Ogden Mills Appears Before the Senatorial Inquisition.

ACCUSES ROOSEVELT WORKERS

Primary Irregularities in the Sixth Assembly District Alleged by the Treasurer of the Republican Committee of New York County—Witnesses Likely to Be Called to Testify in Regard to Charges Made.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Specific charges of corruption in the Sixth assembly district of New York county in the primaries were laid at the doors of Roosevelt managers by Ogden Mills, treasurer of the Republican county committee of New York county. The charges have been laid before District Attorney Whitman, the witness said. Documentary evidence tending to prove the frauds were introduced in evidence by Mr. Mills.

The disclosures, made before the senate committee investigating campaign contributions, opened a new line of inquiry, and it is likely that witnesses will be called from New York to testify in regard to the allegations.

The poll book of the Fourth election district in the Eighth assembly district was put in evidence by Mr. Mills. It disclosed that the alleged voters, all of whom were recorded for Roosevelt, had cast their votes in alphabetical order, which, Mr. Mills suggested, raised a strong presumption that the names had been copied from the published list in the city record, and an equal number of Roosevelt votes put into the ballot box. More than a sixth of the men alleged to have voted in alphabetical order of their names for Roosevelt had moved out of that district or had died before the election, witness said.

A straight issue of veracity was raised regarding the story that J. Pierpont Morgan was asked for more money by President Roosevelt in 1904 and called Roosevelt some uncomplimentary name.

The whole affair was "put up to Wayne MacVeagh," who has previously denied he was the source of the tale. Morgan said it "was made out of whole cloth."

Charles Edward Russell, Socialist candidate for governor of New York, told the committee that he was told the story by Judson C. Welliver, a reporter for Hampton's Magazine and the Munsey publications.

Welliver, who was at the press table reporting the hearing, immediately demanded to be sworn. He insisted that the tale was substantially correct and that he got it all from MacVeagh. Senator Clapp said MacVeagh would be summoned immediately.

Colonel Hannan, LaFollette's secretary, presented LaFollette's campaign accounts. Total receipts were $63,955 and expense $63,951.

Charles R. Crane of Chicago denied the statement of E. H. Hooker, Colonel Roosevelt's treasurer, that he had given $70,000 each to Senator LaFollette and Governor Wilson, and swore that his gifts to the LaFollette campaign totaled $26,654.40, and those to Governor Wilson's pre-convention campaign $10,000.

President Taft In Action And His Summer Residence

WHILE President William Howard Taft, whom the Republican party hopes to send back to the White House, has not entered actively into the campaign, so far as "swinging around the circle" is concerned, he has managed to set forth his views on the crucial topics of the hour. He has done this in newspaper interviews and during his public appearances at various celebrations. He has remained close to his summer home at Beverly, Mass., except on such occasions as he has gone to Washington on official business or has spoken at public functions. His has been what has been called a "dignified campaign." At Beverly he has found a little rest and quiet from the activities of his office after congress had completed one of the longest sessions on record, but he has kept in touch with every move in his fight for re-election through his lieutenants on the Republican national committee, and he has announced in newspaper interviews that he is confident of serving the country for four years more.

Will Not Tolerate Dilatory Methods of Jury Selection.

New York, Oct. 8.—The net result of the first day of the trial of Lieutenant Charles Becker for the murder of Herman Rosenthal was the selection of one juror. He is Harold B. Skinner, manager of the branch office of a light company. Fourteen talesmen were examined.

Justice Goff said very plainly that he will not tolerate methods of jury selection which have been, he said, a scandal in the past. Hearing him early in the proceedings, Attorney McIntyre subsided speedily on being told that removal and arrest were imminent. Night sessions of court will be held, if necessary, to select a jury.

The inquest into the killing of Big Jack Zelig will be held by Coroner Holthausen tomorrow. There will be a special police guard for Phil Davidson, who killed Zelig. Letters have been received by the coroner and the district attorney's office indicating that women friends of Zelig may attempt to kill Davidson in the courtroom.

Aviator's Fatal Leap

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 8.—Joseph Stevenson, aviator, leaped from his biplane, which had become unmanageable, at an elevation of 50 feet, and, falling suffered injuries which physicians say will prove fatal. He had been aloft for only about two minutes and was seen to turn with the apparent intention of landing. Then he jumped.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN.

That king of American financiers, J. Pierpont Morgan, appeared before the Investigating Committee of the United States Senate a few days ago and told of contributing vast sums of money to campaign funds.

There are a great many Americans now who do not agree with Mr. Morgan in many of his policies, many who do not exactly concur with him in the opinion he holds as to the rights of the people and the functions of a Republican form of government, its laws and the method by which those laws should be administered. There are more people in these days who take issue with Mr. Morgan on these matters than there were only a few short years ago. The methods of this great financier and his wonderful material success, more than his words have led many to believe that he does not hold that great confidence in the ability or even in the right of the people, to govern themselves which the great majority of Americans hold.

Mr. Morgan is one of the great figures of America. He stands out prominently as one of the big men of the age. He has accomplished wonders for Mr. Morgan and for Mr. Morgan's enterprises and America cannot help a feeling of pride that this giant of finance, this man to whom kings and governments come for relief when in financial straits is an American. But whether America is better off, whether the American people, their government, their rights and their opportunities are better for Mr. Morgan's gigantic successes, is another question.

J. Pierpont Morgan is not at heart the monster that his enemies and those who would now seek to pillory him in the public esteem to make political capital for themselves, picture him. From Mr. Morgan's viewpoint he is really a good man. He means well, but his viewpoint is all out of plumb with the ideas most patriotic Americans hold of their rights and their government.

Himself, essentially a strong man mentally and physically, he believes in making of all the capital with which nature endowed him, the greatest measure of success and he has done so.

There was something pathetic, something which compelled admiration and excited sympathy, even of those who disagree now and have disagreed for years, with Mr. Morgan, when the powerful figure, appeared before the Senate Committee last week and asked permission to move closer to his questioner, Senator Pomerene of Ohio, because he could not hear clearly.

While millions of people disagree with Mr. Morgan's policies they must acknowledge to a very human feeling of pride that this sturdy old oak, standing out so prominently in the world's forest, is an American and a feeling of sympathy equally human, to see him bowing before that irresistible hurricane.

No man need feel that his love of American institutions is weakened, no man need feel that his idea of patriotism is dulled, his belief that the people are able and have a right to govern themselves is in the least shaken, no man need love the people and their rights the less, to admire J. Pierpont Morgan.

He is worthy of admiration for his achievements. Whether worthy of emulation depends on the viewpoint which one may hold on subjects dear to the American people.

Poetry For Today

"HOW IT HAPPENED."

I got to thinkin' of her—both her parents dead and gone—
And all her sisters married off, and none but her and John
A-livin' all alone there in that lone some sort o' way.
And him a blame old bachelor, confirmed ev'ry day.
I'd knowed 'em all from children, and their daddy from the time
He settled in the neighborhood, and hadn't ary dime
Er dollar, when he married, fer to start housekeepin' on.
So I got to thinkin' of her—both her parents dead and gone.

I got to thinkin' of her; and a-wanderin' what she done
That all her sisters kep' a gettin' married, one by one.
And her without no chances—and the best girl of the pack—
An old maid, with her hands, you might say, tied behind her back.
And Mother, too, afore she died, she ust to jes' take on.
When none of 'em was left, you know, but Evaline and John.
And jes' declare to goodness 'at the young men must be bline
To not see what a wife they'd git if they got Evaline.

I got to thinkin' of her; in my great affliction she
Was sich a comfort to us, and so kind and neighborly—
She'd come, and leave her housework fer to he'p out little Jane,
And talk of her own mother 'at she'd never see again—
Maybe sometimes cry together though, fer the most part she Would have the child so reconciled and happy-like 'at we Felt lonesomer 'n ever when she'd put her bonnet on
And say she'd rally haf to be a-gittin' back to John.

I got to thinkin' of her, as I say, and more and more
I'd think of her dependence, and the burdens 'at she bore—
Her parents both a-bein' dead, and all her sisters gone
And married off, and her a-livin' there alone with John
You say jes' a-tollin' and a-slavin' out her life
Fer a man 'at hadn't pride enough to git hisse'f a wife—
'Less some one married Evaline and packed her off some day—
So I got to thinkin' of her—and it happened that away

Let Bachelor Forget His Lonely Misery

By JANE ERICKSEN
Sacramento, Cal.

I cannot see the advisability of tagging a man because he is a bachelor. In the first place, it is cruel, to say the least. Just because a fellow has been so unfortunate as to be left outside of matrimony's hospitable gates there is no reason why we should throw it up to him. There are very few men who have not met at least one girl whom they would like to marry, and that they have failed to qualify up to the lady's requirements is no sound reason for unseemly mirth and merriment from the world at large.

Did you ever get turned down? Then you know what a delightful sensation it is. How would you like to have that hideous experience, which has caused you much inward anguish, to say nothing of humiliation, blared abroad to an unsympathetic public?

How would you like having to wear a button or a badge boldly displayed on your coat lapel signifying that you belong to the great wandering family of Turned Downs? It wouldn't set well, would it?

So I declare, in the cause of common courtesy, that it wouldn't be fair to tag the bachelor.

Let him forget his lonely misery if he can.

Don't doom him to remember his troubles every time he puts on his coat.

Let him alone and maybe some day when nobody's paying much attention to him he may manage to slip through the big gates. You never can tell.

A German sociologist has made the discovery that flirting is more refined among the middle classes than among the upper and lower classes. One finds it difficult to understand why there should be class distinction in flirting.

If they keep on using their captains and lieutenants for the purpose of experimenting with airships the nations of Europe may soon cease to be burdened by standing armies.

There were 18,300,000 pounds of artificial silk produced last year, and yet many a man will insist that he wears silk socks.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN.

That king of American financiers, J. Pierpont Morgan, appeared before the Investigating Committee of the United States Senate a few days ago and told of contributing vast sums of money to campaign funds.

There are a great many Americans now who do not agree with Mr. Morgan in many of his policies, many who do not exactly concur with him in the opinion he holds as to the rights of the people and the functions of a Republican form of government, its laws and the method by which those laws should be administered. There are more people in these days who take issue with Mr. Morgan on these matters than there were only a few short years ago. The methods of this great financier and his wonderful material success, more than his words have led many to believe that he does not hold that great confidence in the ability or even in the right of the people, to govern themselves which the great majority of Americans hold.

Mr. Morgan is one of the great figures of America. He stands out prominently as one of the big men of the age. He has accomplished wonders for Mr. Morgan and for Mr. Morgan's enterprises and America cannot help a feeling of pride that this giant of finance, this man to whom kings and governments come for relief when in financial straits is an American. But whether America is better off, whether the American people, their government, their rights and their opportunities are better for Mr. Morgan's gigantic successes, is another question.

J. Pierpont Morgan is not at heart the monster that his enemies and those who would now seek to pillory him in the public esteem to make political capital for themselves, picture him. From Mr. Morgan's viewpoint he is really a good man. He means well, but his viewpoint is all out of plumb with the ideas most patriotic Americans hold of their rights and their government.

Himself, essentially a strong man mentally and physically, he believes in making of all the capital with which nature endowed him, the greatest measure of success and he has done so.

There was something pathetic, something which compelled admiration and excited sympathy, even of those who disagree now and have disagreed for years, with Mr. Morgan, when the powerful figure, appeared before the Senate Committee last week and asked permission to move closer to his questioner, Senator Pomerene of Ohio, because he could not hear clearly.

While millions of people disagree with Mr. Morgan's policies they must acknowledge to a very human feeling of pride that this sturdy old oak, standing out so prominently in the world's forest, is an American and a feeling of sympathy equally human, to see him bowing before that irresistible hurricane.

No man need feel that his love of American institutions is weakened, no man need feel that his idea of patriotism is dulled, his belief that the people are able and have a right to govern themselves is in the least shaken, no man need love the people and their rights the less, to admire J. Pierpont Morgan.

He is worthy of admiration for his achievements. Whether worthy of emulation depends on the viewpoint which one may hold on subjects dear to the American people.

Poetry For Today

"HOW IT HAPPENED."

I got to thinkin' of her—both her parents dead and gone—
And all her sisters married off, and none but her and John
A-livin' all alone there in that lonesome sort o' way,
And him a blame old bachelor, con-
firmer ev'ry day.
I'd knowed 'em all from children,
and their daddy from the time
He settled in the neighborhood, and hadn't ary dime
Er dollar, when he married, fer to start housekeepin' on.
So I got to thinkin' of her—both her
parents dead and gone,

I got to thinkin' of her; and a wanderin' what she done
That all her sisters kep' a gettin' married, one by one.
And her without no chances—and the best girl of the pack—
An old maid, with her hands, you might say, tied behind her back.
And Mother, too, afore she died, she ust to jes' take on—
When none of 'em was left, you know, but Evaline and John,
And jes' declare to goodness 'at the young men must be bline
To not see what a wife they'd git if they got Evaline.

I got to thinkin' of her; in my great affliction she
Was sich a comfort to us, and so kind and neighborly—
She'd come, and leave her housework
fer to he'p out little Jane,
And talk of he'f own mother 'at she'd never see again—
Maybe sometimes cry together though, fer the most part she Would have the child so reconciled and happy-like 'at we Felt lonesomer 'n ever when she'd put her bonnet on
And say she'd rally haf to be a-gittin' back to John.

I got to thinkin' of her, as I say, and more and more
I'd think of her dependence, and the burdens 'at she bore—
Her parents both a-bein' dead, and all her sisters gone
And married off, and her a-livin' there alone with John
You say jes' a-tollin' and a-slavin' out her life
Fer a man 'at hadn't pride enough to git hissef a wife—
'Less some one married Evaline and packed her off some day—
So I got to thinkin' of her—and it happened that away
—James Whitcomb Riley.

LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE AT OPENING MEETING OF CAMPAIGN

Dr. John Wesley Hill, of New York, the Speaker of the Evening, Accorded Closest Attention and Liberal Applause.

G. O. P. ACHIEVEMENTS PRAISED

President Taft Misrepresented and Misunderstood, is Pictured as a Colossal Figure Worthy to Stand With Lincoln—Local Speakers, Hughey and Reid, Plead for Republican Success.

Dr. John Wesley Hill of New York, "pulpit and political speaker" as he describes himself, has caused to congratulate himself heartily on the large and enthusiastic audience which greeted him at Memorial Hall last night.

Dr. Hill came here under assignment from the National and State Committee of the Republican party and in response to the invitation of the local county committee to open the Republican campaign in this county, the former home of State Chairman Daugherty.

Hon. Ralph D. Cole, ex-Congressman from the Findlay Ohio district, who was advertised to speak with Dr. Hill on the political issues of the day, was unable to be present and to Dr. Hill fell the work of making the address of the evening. He not only proved himself abundantly equal to the task, but enjoyed the work immensely. As he warmed up to his subject his coat was cast aside and from that time on to the finish he handled his subject, figuratively, without gloves, and literally without a coat.

That the audience which contained a goodly number of the fair sex and quite a few farmers enjoyed the way the speaker handled his work, was testified to by the liberal applause and the frequent explosions of laughter.

Dr. Hill is a regulation "stump speaker". He makes his arguments and drives home his points, after which he illustrates both by telling a story. Time after time he "brought down the house" with a good and absolutely new story. In telling his stories the speaker favored no class nor no nationality.

The Germans, the Irish and the Jews, all figured in the story telling and the Republican, Democrats and Progressives each and all of them "got theirs".

For an hour and a half the speaker kept his hearers interested with fact and prophecy, with tales of disaster in the past and prophecy of danger for the future.

The initiative and the referendum were denounced in unmeasured terms as dangerous doctrines which would lead ultimately to single tax and socialism. The recall of judges and judicial decisions was scathingly attacked and the judiciary was strongly defended in glowing terms.

The word picture drawn by the speaker of the constitutional safeguards with which legislation is now surrounded, was a striking argument.

Before a proposal could be finally enacted into law the speaker said, it must be introduced in the legislative body, referred to a committee of experts and in turn to a sub-committee where it is considered carefully.

If favorably viewed, the bill was so reported back to the main committee and by it in turn to the house where the whole proposal was threshed out in detail. If it passed through these acid tests it was not yet a law. It must then go to the Senate where the same refining process must be observed and finally passing the Senate it was not yet a law. It must then go to the chief executive for his signature.

Even after being signed by the executive the bill was not yet, the speaker said, irrevocably fastened on the people as a law. Any citizen of this nation then had the right to question its legality and appeal yet to the courts and the court's decision was necessary in addition to make of it a law.

The I. and R. tended too much to a pure democracy, and pure democracy, the speaker asserted, meant tyranny of the worst sort.

The constitutional safeguards to the rights of the minority and the rights of the individual came in for unstinted praise and beautiful tribute.

To the character and achievements of President Taft the speaker paid a glowing eulogy.

He compared the president to Abraham Lincoln—a gigantic figure, a patriotic man performing splendid service to his country, but basely misrepresented and misunderstood. A man who would, like Lincoln, grow in the estimation of the people, whose achievements would be more appreciated by posterity than the present generation.

The picture of present prosperous conditions was a vivid one and the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill was given credit for the prosperous era and denominated by the speaker as one of the best tariff bills ever written.

Ex-President Roosevelt was denounced as a revolutionist and a socialist, while Woodrow Wilson was ridiculed as a theoretical college professor.

Closing his speech with an urgent appeal for the voters to stand by President Taft, remember his achievements, be mindful of present conditions and not forgetful of the era of hard times from 1892 to 96, not to mistake destruction for progress, the speaker closed amid a storm of applause. At the conclusion he led the crowd in "three cheers for Taft."

It was the nearest approach to an old time political rally that the people of Fayette county have witnessed for a long time.

Preceding Dr. Hill's speech, Hon. C. A. Reid made an address appealing for support of the Republican party at the election. While unstinted in his praise of the party and its achievements, Mr. Reid did not mention the name of President Taft.

Following Mr. Reid who presided at the meeting as chairman, Dr. R. M. Hughey, the Republican nominee for Congress, made a stirring appeal for the people to support the Republican party and re-elect William Howard Taft president.

Neither of the local men denounced the third party movement and neither had anything to say in abuse of Col. Roosevelt or his candidacy.

Off Again

Monday afternoon the monster engine of local freight No. 63, on the B. & O. railroad left the rails at the blind switch just opposite the cement bridge near the B. & O. station. After plowing through the ties and over the street crossing, it came to a halt 40 yards from the switch.

It required nearly two hours' work to replace the big engine and repair the track. One of the heavy rails was snapped like a straw. A defect at the switch probably caused the engine to leave the rails.

SIX ARE INDICTED BY THE GRAND JURY

Bill Against Jay Cole for Attempting to Kill Cousin; Chas. Johnson for Attempted Burglary, Two for Horse Stealing, One for Burglary and One Is Secret.

The report of the October Grand Jury was made late Monday afternoon, showing the examination of 14 witnesses, covering six cases, one of the cases was ignored, and five true bills returned, indicting six persons, only one being kept secret.

R. G. Jefferson, of Madison township, was foreman of the jury, and John Dial and Frank Hanna were called in to take the places of E. S. Beatty and John Riley, who were excused. The jail was visited and reported in good condition.

One of the indictments was against Jay Cole, charging him with assault with intent to kill, the offense taken place on the night of August 26th, when he is charged with assaulting Dudley Cole at the Rothrock livery stable while Dudley Cole was asleep.

Charles Johnson, colored, was indicted upon a charge of attempted burglary and larceny. Johnson is the man who was arrested by Noah Bell who found the man trying to enter the rear of Palmer's store about midnight of July 23rd, and is the man who planned to overpower Chief McCoy, or brain him with an iron rod. He later planned a wholesale jail delivery, but was foiled by Sheriff Nelson. Since that time he has been denied the privilege of the corridor at the county bastille.

Kerby Henderson and Earl Bass, ly indicted for stealing a horse from indicted for stealing a horse from James Henderson, father of Kirby. The boys drove away with the animal August 9th and were later arrested at Cincinnati, and have since been in the county jail. James R. Stratenbarger, who was implicated in the Acton Brothers store robbery on June 5th, by a confession made by Ollie Downard, was indicted for the offense of burglary and larceny.

The case ignored was that of Luther Robinett, who was charged with trying to defraud by making false statements in a horse trade.

To Sell Pavillion And Business Block

Charles Persinger, one of the largest real estate holders of the city and county, has just placed the Arcade block and the big sales pavillion on the market, and desires to dispose of both properties by December 1st of this year.

The total valuation of all the property he is advertising for sale is in the neighborhood of $50,000. The sales pavillion is widely known because of the big horse sales held here, and was erected at a total cost of above $30,000, including cost of the site.

The Arcade building was formerly the Foster Hotel, and owing to its central location is a valuable property. It fronts 106 feet on Fayette street and extends to the alley near the court house.

LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCE AT OPENING MEETING OF CAMPAIGN

Dr. John Wesley Hill, of New York, the Speaker of the Evening, Accorded Closest Attention and Liberal Applause.

G. O. P. ACHIEVEMENTS PRAISED

President Taft Misrepresented and Misunderstood, is Pictured as a Colossal Figure Worthy to Stand With Lincoln—Local Speakers, Hughey and Reid, Plead for Republican Success.

Dr. John Wesley Hill of New York, "pulpiter and political speaker" as he describes himself, has caused to congratulate himself heartily on the large and enthusiastic audience which greeted him at Memorial Hall last night.

Dr. Hill came here under assignment from the National and State Committee of the Republican party and in response to the invitation of the local county committee to open the Republican campaign in this county, the former home of State Chairman Daugherty.

Hon. Ralph D. Cole, ex-Congressman from the Findlay Ohio district, who was advertised to speak with Dr. Hill on the political issues of the day, was unable to be present and to Dr. Hill fell the work of making the address of the evening. He not only proved himself abundantly equal to the task, but enjoyed the work immensely. As he warmed up to his subject his coat was cast aside and from that time on to the finish he handled his subject, figuratively, without gloves, and literally without a coat.

That the audience which contained a goodly number of the fair sex and quite a few farmers enjoyed the way the speaker handled his work, was testified to by the liberal applause and the frequent explosions of laughter.

Dr. Hill is a regulation "stump speaker". He makes his arguments and drives home his points, after which he illustrates both by telling a story. Time after time he "brought down the house" with a good and absolutely new story. In telling his stories the speaker favored no class nor no nationality.

The Germans, the Irish and the Jews, all figured in the story telling and the Republican, Democrats and Progressives each and all of them "got theirs".

For an hour and a half the speaker kept his hearers interested with fact and prophecy, with tales of disaster in the past and prophecy of danger for the future.

The initiative and the referendum were denounced in unmeasured terms as dangerous doctrines which would lead ultimately to single tax and socialism. The recall of judges and judicial decisions was scathingly attacked and the judiciary was strongly defended in glowing terms.

The word picture drawn by the speaker of the constitutional safeguards with which legislation is now surrounded, was a striking argument.

Before a proposal could be finally enacted into law the speaker said, it must be introduced in the legislative body, referred to a committee of experts and in turn to a sub-committee where it is considered carefully.

If favorably viewed, the bill was so reported back to the main committee and by it in turn to the house where the whole proposal was threshed out in detail. If it passed through these acid tests it was not yet a law. It must then go to the Senate where the same refining process must be observed and finally passing the Senate it was not yet a law. It must then go to the chief executive for his signature.

Even after being signed by the executive the bill was not yet, the speaker said, irrevocably fastened on the people as a law. Any citizen of this nation then had the right to question its legality and appeal yet to the courts and the court's decision was necessary in addition to make of it a law.

The I. and R. tended too much to a pure democracy, and pure democracy, the speaker asserted, meant tyranny of the worst sort.

The constitutional safeguards to the rights of the minority and the rights of the individual came in for unstinted praise and beautiful tribute.

To the character and achievements of President Taft the speaker paid a glowing eulogy.

He compared the president to Abraham Lincoln—a gigantic figure, a patriotic man performing splendid service to his country, but basely misrepresented and misunderstood. A man who would, like Lincoln, grow in the estimation of the people, whose achievements would be more appreciated by posterity than the present generation.

The picture of present prosperous conditions was a vivid one and the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill was given credit for the prosperous era and denominated by the speaker as one of the best tariff bills ever written.

Ex-President Roosevelt was denounced as a revolutionist and a socialist, while Woodrow Wilson was ridiculed as a theoretical college professor.

Closing his speech with an urgent appeal for the voters to stand by President Taft, remember his achievements, be mindful of present conditions and not forgetful of the era of hard times from 1892 to 96, not to mistake destruction for progress, the speaker closed amid a storm of applause. At the conclusion he led the crowd in "three cheers for Taft."

It was the nearest approach to an old time political rally that the people of Fayette county have witnessed for a long time.

Preceding Dr. Hill's speech, Hon. C. A. Reid made an address appealing for support of the Republican party at the election. While unstinted in his praise of the party and its achievements, Mr. Reid did not mention the name of President Taft.

Following Mr. Reid who presided at the meeting as chairman, Dr. R. M. Hughey, the Republican nominee for Congress, made a stirring appeal for the people to support the Republican party and re-elect William Howard Taft president.

Neither of the local men denounced the third party movement and neither had anything to say in abuse of Col. Roosevelt or his candidacy.

Off Again

On Again

Monday afternoon the monster engine of local freight No. 63, on the B. & O. railroad left the rails at the blind switch just opposite the cement bridge near the B. & O. station. After plowing through the ties and over the street crossing, it came to a halt 40 yards from the switch.

It required nearly two hours' work to replace the big engine and repair the track. One of the heavy rails was snapped like a straw. A defect at the switch probably caused the engine to leave the rails.

SIX ARE INDICTED BY THE GRAND JURY

Bill Against Jay Cole for Attempting to Kill Cousin; Chas. Johnson for Attempted Burglary, Two for Horse Stealing, One for Burglary and One is Secret.

The report of the October Grand Jury was made late Monday afternoon, showing the examination of 14 witnesses, covering six cases, one of the cases was ignored, and five true bills returned, indicting six persons, only one being kept secret.

R. G. Jefferson, of Madison township, was foreman of the jury, and John Dial and Frank Hanna were called in to take the places of E. S. Beatty and John Riley, who were excused. The jail was visited and reported in good condition.

One of the indictments was against Jay Cole, charging him with assault with intent to kill, the offense taken place on the night of August 26th, when he is charged with assaulting Dudley Cole at the Rothrock livery stable while Dudley Cole was asleep.

Charles Johnson, colored, was indicted upon a charge of attempted burglary and larceny. Johnson is the man who was arrested by Noah Bell who found the man trying to enter the rear of Palmer's store about midnight of July 23rd, and is the man who planned to overpower Chief McCoy, or brain him with an iron rod. He later planned a wholesale jail delivery, but was foiled by Sheriff Nelson. Since that time he has been denied the privilege of the corridor at the county bastille.

Kerby Henderson and Earl Bass, ly indicted for stealing a horse from indicted for stealing a horse from James Henderson, father of Kirby. The boys drove away with the animal August 9th and were later arrested at Cincinnati, and have since been in the county jail. James R. Stratenbarger, who was implicated in the Acton Brothers store robbery on June 5th, by a confession made by Ollie Downard, was indicted for the offense of burglary and larceny.

The case ignored was that of Luther Robnett, who was charged with trying to defraud by making false statements in a horse trade.

IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Eva Penn honored the 80th birthday of her father, Mr. Josiah Hopkins, with a very beautiful dinner, elaborate in its courses, Monday. The table, having brilliant decorations of scarlet salvia and greenery, was laid with sixteen covers, and was exclusively a family affair.

Seated with Mrs. Penn and Mr. Hopkins were Mr. and Mrs. Austin F. Hopkins and son Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hopkins, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Penn and daughters, Mrs. Ellen Jones, Mrs. Virginia Willis, Rev. and Mrs. T. W. Locke, Mrs. Jas. Priddy, of Greenfield, and Frank Hamilton.

It is seldom that a man reaches the octogarian milestone in such excellent health and with such preservation of his faculties as has Mr. Hopkins, and the occasion was altogether one of the utmost felicity with congratulations and good wishes showered upon the honored father, grandfather and great grandfather.

An impressive feature of the day was the christening of the two great grand-children, the little daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Penn, Kathleen Florence and Majorie Jane, by Rev. Locke, at the close of the dinner.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Draise, near town, on the New Holland pike, was the scene of an enjoyable surprise for Mrs. Draise, on Sunday.

The daughter, Miss Emma Draise and son, Howard, had perfected all arrangements and carried out all plans for the pleasure of the occasion.

Application of Progressives For Writ of Mandamus Denied By the Supreme Court

Refuses to Review the Rulings of Secretary of State Graves, Denying Other Party Nominees Place on Bull Moose Ticket.

Special to Herald.
 Columbus, Ohio, October 8th.—The Supreme court of Ohio this morning handed down its decision on the application of the Progressives for a writ of mandamus, the effect of which, if granted, would be to compel the Boards of Election throughout the state to order printed on the Progressive ticket the names of those nominees of other political parties who had been endorsed by the Progressives.

Secretary of State Charles H. Graves, the chief election officer of the state, ruled, a short time ago, when the application was made to him, that the name of a candidate could not appear on more than one ticket on the same ballot and denied the application of the Progressives for leave to place Republican nominees on their ticket.

The court in denying the application, holds that the ruling of the Secretary of State is final.

Dangerous Fire In Wilmington

A very bad fire which for a time threatened with destruction the beautiful new Masonic Temple in Wilmington, occurred at 10:30 Monday night, but hard work on the part of the fire department saved the building from destruction.

The blaze occurred as a result of defective wiring, it is said, starting in the ceiling of the Watt & Patterson big department store, and the smoke and water damaged the stock of goods several thousand dollars. The building was badly damaged, but the greatest loss was in the department store stock, one report received here placing the total damage at $10,000.

The Masonic Temple was just completed a few days ago, and the Masons had not yet moved into their new home. If the blaze had gotten beyond control, the center of the city would have been destroyed.

WHERE THE WORLD LAGS

In Arts, Literature and Science It Is Progressive—Why Not in Humanity?

In the acceptance and appreciation of the latest developments in the arts, literature, philosophy and the sciences, the modern world is truly cosmopolitan. It recognizes no boundary line of race or nationality where genius in these fields reveals itself. So closely are the various countries now bound together through international communication and commercialism and the universal diffusion of intelligence, that competition in the search for knowledge has been tremendously stimulated, says a writer in the Metropolitan Magazine. In the realm of the intellect and the senses emulation is encouraged and each new discovery or achievement that promises greater progress for mankind is hailed with impartial enthusiasm. The world is ready to pay homage equally to Marconi, Lister, Rodin, Reinhardt, Tolstoy, Loeb, Peary or Amundsen. None will be denied the acknowledgment due him because he was born in one country and not in another. It is the patience, daring, endurance, persistence, wisdom and passion for truth and knowledge as manifested in his works that are accepted as the measure of his worth. It is only when economic and political supremacy is in question that the nations and races maintain hideous and barbaric relations toward one another. Then envy, suspicion and thoughts of mutual destruction are accepted as natural, logical and inevitable. Then the world divides itself into armed camps and group alliances are made as safeguards of one nation against the other. In everything but the one vital, human essential of the welfare of the people, who sustain out of their poverty the armaments in times of peace and give of their lives when war is rampant, the world's rulers are content to see amity and brotherhood prevail.

used in the work Galloway made himself. The "bark," as well as the animals, is hand carved. Mr. Galloway devoted four hundred working hours to the production of this curious bit of sculpture—forty days, working ten hours a day. The sculpture has been on exhibition at the corner of Ninth street and Baltimore avenue.—Kansas City Star.

OF THE DAYS OF BOYHOOD

Memory of the Oldtime Desserts Evidently Still Lingers With This Writer.

In the good old days, when life was simple and sincere, when people were happier than now and didn't make so much money, when society was friendship and home was love, there were two stated and popular desserts at all parties and particular dinner occasions, and they were float and tarts.

That float! There was never anything to compare with it before or since. Those white, snowy islands floating on a golden flood were a dream just imported from elysium. It was almost profane to taste it, so like a vision of eternal happiness it seemed. But we did taste it, and the luxury of it skipped past the palate and melted into the mind, where it inspired thoughts of the loveliness of life.

And those tarts—little, crisp, white shells filled with jelly and jam or preserves of some kind. My, what gems of joy they were! We remember particularly the jellied tarts. They were winsome little desserts, as simple and modest as lilies of the valley, and sometimes we thought they were related, they were so modest and pure. Oh, the sad day when they were supplanted by ices, meringues, crackers and rotten cheese. No wonder pessimism spreads itself so vauntingly!—Ohio State Journal.

Climate Is Handicap.

The Nobel Prizes.

Alfred B. Nobel, inventor of dynamite, died in 1896, and bequeathed his fortune, estimated at $9,000,000, to the foundation of a fund the interest of which should yearly be distributed to those who had most largely contributed to the "good of humanity." The interest is divided in five equal shares, given away, "One to the person who in the domain of physics has made the most important discovery or invention; one to the person making the most important chemical discovery; one to the person making the most important discovery in medicine or physiology; one to the person who provides the most excellent work of an idealistic tendency; and one to the person who has worked best for the fraternization of nations and the abolition or reduction of standing armies and the promotion of peace."

Why We Have No Paris.

There can never be in the United States a real Paris of America until we shall get ranks and orders of nobility, and that will only be when our republic shall develop into a grand imperial nation. Under a newly acquired emperor a titled class would follow as a matter of course, and the easiest way to get it would be to sell the titles. Ten million dollars would buy a dukedom, $5,000,000 the title of count, and $1,000,000 that of baron. In the beginning of old world nobility titles were granted by the sovereign for eminent services, but when such a system is started in a great country like ours the simplest way would be to establish an aristocracy of wealth.

Until then our great metropolitan cities will never be more than mere centers of business and capital.—New Orleans Picayune.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County, ss. Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. ## THE "DONE UP" SHIRT WAIST.

Half of the looks of a shirt waist depend on the way it is done up. If it is washed with cheap strong yellow soap, so that it gets streaked and stained instead of being cleaned and beautified, it is "done up" sure enough. The woman who values her personal appearance—and that means every woman—will see to it that her shirt waists are laundered with a soap that leaves them white and clean and sweet and new-looking. Easy Task soap is the only one that will do this. Same price as others—five cents a cake, and the greatest enemy to dirt and friend to fabrics ever made.

ESTATE HOT STORM

It burns any grade of soft coal in a highly successful manner, through the use of the Estate Hot Blast and Hot Air Circulating Systems, the greatest improvements ever made in a soft coal stove.

It heats by both radiation and hot air circulation, producing practically double the heat that is secured with ordinary coal stoves from the same amount of fuel.

By putting in coal once a day or two a steady fire from the time it is put up in the fall till taken down in the spring can be kept with but little attention and absolutely without smoke and gas escaping into the room.

You get this decidedly superior service, this demonstrable fuel economy, for the price of an ordinary stove. An examination will convince you.

QUESTION FOR MUSIC LOVERS

Just What Do You Hear When You Attend a Concert or Listen to an Orchestra?

OSCAR W. NEWMAN of Portsmouth, O., one of the Democratic nominees for Judge of the Supreme Court, long term, was born at Portsmouth, O., June 14, 1867. He was educated in the public schools of Portsmouth and at Kenyon college. Studied law in the office of his father and was admitted to practice in October, 1891, since which time he has been engaged in a general practice in the state and federal courts.

Here symphony concerts, when I met my violin teacher, and told him I had just heard the great orchestra. "Is that so?" he remarked. "Well, what did you hear?"

"Oh, the Unfinished Symphony and

"But you are only telling me what was on the program. What I asked was of more importance. I wanted to know what you heard."

I started to say that there were nearly a hundred musicians, that they played all kinds of instruments, but he interrupted again. "Yes, I know, but what did you hear? Was it a great noise or did it say something to you?"

Now I began to understand, and of course I had no words to express my feelings. But I thought about it very often for some time, and wondered what music really was; what other people heard; whether any one ever heard what I did; if they ever found themselves powerfully moved at a great climax in the music; if they preferred to go to concerts alone and sit in a dark corner and listen without looking in the direction of the stage. And as I gained more experience as a listener there were thousands of questions that arose from that one simple question. What did I hear? What did you hear when you listened to good music?—Exchange.

YOUR COAL PROBLEM SOLVED

No need to worry about your winter's coal bill if you use the

ESTATE HOT STORM

It burns any grade of soft coal in a highly successful manner, through the use of the Estate Hot Blast and Hot Air Circulating Systems, the greatest improvements ever made in a soft coal stove.

It heats by both radiation and hot air circulation, producing practically double the heat that is secured with ordinary coal stoves from the same amount of fuel.

By putting in coal once a day or two a steady fire from the time it is put up in the fall till taken down in the spring can be kept with but little attention and absolutely without smoke and gas escaping into the room.

You get this decidedly superior service, this demonstrable fuel economy, for the price of an ordinary stove. An examination will convince you.

Red Sox and Giants In Excellent Condition For Big Game Today

Not a Regular Missing From Line-Up This Afternoon.

New York, Oct. 8.—After the long and successful campaign in their respective leagues, the New York Giants and Boston Red Sox are ready for the big engagement that means for them fame and money.

It will be the ninth meeting of the pennant-winning teams of the National and American baseball leagues under the present dual organization system, and the winner will break a tie that exists between the two leagues.

Not a regular will be missing from the batting list this afternoon, when the umpire says "play ball" for the first struggle of the series.

Betting on the world series does not appear to be as general as had been expected. Boston money was to be seen in larger quantities than New York cash, but local fans are holding out for odds.

In all probability Wood and Mathewson will be the pitchers selected to start the game.

Sale of tickets began at 10 a. m. Thousands of people had been in line since midnight, and it is estimated that 40,000 are gathered at this hour. Approximately 30,000 tickets will be sold, those selling at $2 admitting the purchaser to a seat in the lower grandstand. Dollar tickets admit to the bleachers.

WALSH TO OPPOSE CHENEY.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Manager Calhoun of the Chicago American league baseball club selected pitcher Walsh to oppose Cheney today in the opening game of the series with the Chicago National league team for the championship of Chicago.

Phillies Take First

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—Hard and timely hitting by the Phillies enabled the National league club of this city to conquer the Athletics in the first interleague contest of the series at Shibe park by 8 to 4. Both teams played a fast fielding game, neither blundering throughout the contest, and both hitting hard.

CAN YOU SAVE?

Certainly you can save, if there is an incentive. Lots of women in Washington, C. H. are saving wrappers from Easy Task soap. You know if you send twenty-five of the wrappers and a two cent stamp to the Hewitt Brothers Soap Company, Dayton, Ohio, they will send you a beautiful art reproduction, all ready for framing. Railway Promoters Charged With Misusing the Mails.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 8.—Accused of misusing the mails, John M. Wiley, Fred Beckley and A. I. Ball were arraigned in federal court here. According to federal authorities the men, in promoting what was termed the North and South Railroad association, capitalized at $2,500,000, have been engaged in a "get rich quick" scheme which has taken approximately $100,000 from the farmers of the middle west.

According to Assistant United States District Attorney Dickey, the three were identified with a proposition to construct a railway from Winnipeg to New Orleans, the exact location of the railway shifting from time to time, according to the willingness or unwillingness of particular localities to buy stocks.

BEST TO AVOID MUSHROOMS

Really Have Little Value as Sustenance and There is Always Danger of Poison.

There are in this country more than one hundred edible species of mushrooms. The popular distinction between mushroom and toadstool is one of name only. Many of the supposedly inferior specimens have proved on careful examination to be harmless, whereas some of those which bear an extremely close family resemblance to favored articles of diet are the carriers of danger in the form of exceedingly powerful poisons. Let him, therefore, who lacks the training requisite for the unfailing detection and identification of species carefully refrain from excursions into a field of uncertainty so fraught with danger.

Mushrooms form an unusually nutritious and sustaining diet. A well-known botanist says that mushrooms might properly be called vegetable meat and used as a substitute for animal food.

It is doubtful, however, if this is true.

The more we learn of mushrooms the more it becomes apparent that they are scarcely different as regards dietary virtues from the general run of the green vegetables which have never achieved the distinction of any unique or superior nutritive properties. They belong rather to that large group of food materials which we consume for reasons quite apart from the body.

Young Girl Kidnaped By Two Men

Cleveland, O., Oct. 8.—Celia Petikka, 13, on her way to school, was seized by two men, her hands and feet tied, gagged and put into a wagon. Near Berea the child, according to the story she told A. H. Hudson, to whose house she made her way, managed to loose her bonds and slip from the wagon. James Petikka, the father, went to Berea and brought the child back.

UNREST IN ENGLAND

Duke of Marlborough Blames
Dearth of Cottages for Evil.

Absence of Homes for Humblest
Classes of Rural Workers is Depopulating the Country—"Week
Enders" is Chief Cause.

London.—When the duke of Marlborough, in his recent articles in the Daily Mail on "Industrial Unrest in England," traced the source of the trouble back to the dearth of cottages for country laborers, it seemed rather fanciful, but since his articles were printed, no small amount of evidence has appeared to back up his theory.

One of the most interesting contributions to the discussion comes from "A Country Parson," who says that the dearth of homes for the humblest classes or rural workers is a crying evil. According to him, it is depopulating the country.

Marriages among the young people are at a discount, he says. Twenty years ago, in his parish, the registers show there was a yearly average of six marriages of agricultural laborers. During the last eight years this average has been reduced to one. Assuredly this statement backs up the duke of Marlborough.

The young men in the country have no inducements to marry there and no homes to settle down in. They flock to the cities, they crowd out the city born of weaker physique, they lower the standard of wages by glutting the labor market. Then come poverty, strike, paralysis of business, general all-round disaster.

But why should there be a dearth of rural cottages. Why does not the law of supply and demand operate to end it in short order? One reason seems to be that all sorts of outsiders are competing with the agricultural laborer in the way of a cottage that may exist or be built in rural regions.

Behind this is the fundamental cause, the fact that the agricultural laborer is so badly paid or paid in such an impractical way that he is not able to pay anything like a decent rent for a home—anything like the rent which will return even the smallest interest on the builder's investment.

Illustrating the competition with the laborer for the rural cottage, the case of the week ender is cited. The week ender of moderate means wants a very cheap place where he can run down in fine weather and spend a day or two at what is to him merely nominal expense. He finds a laborer's cottage picturesquely situated; he goes to the landlord and offers a grotesquely low rent for it, say five shillings or $1.25 a week, on condition that it be restored or fixed up—put in good order. The landlord cheerfully accepts the offer and puts the cottage in first-rate condition, for the rent of the city man offers, absurd though it may seem to a New Yorker, is anywhere from three to five times as much as the agricultural laborer can afford to pay.

Russia's Hunting Bag.

The hunting season in Russia has come to an end, and the following particulars, says a St. Petersburg correspondent, relate to the booty, which has far surpassed that of the preceding year.

The largest number of animals killed are squirrels, which head the list with 4,525,300 victims. The most sought after fur is of course black sable, of which 12,250 were caught. Last year a clear profit of 2,500,000 francs was made on sables, which fetched as much as 1,000 francs apiece.

The remainder of the "bag" was composed of 200,000 ermine, 1,500 brown bears, 180,000 skunk, 100 blue foxes and 16,500 gray wolves.

OHIO HAPPENINGS

Cleveland Cleans House.
Cleveland, O., Oct. 8.—According to announcement by Lieutenant Matinee, who has had charge of the 35 plain-clothes patrolmen, detailed two months ago as a special "vice squad," more than 500 men and women of questionable reputation have been driven out of town, and practically all the "girl" saloons with cheap grill rooms attached, have been put out of business.

Bryan Booked For Ohio.
Columbus, O., Oct. 8.—Chairman W. L. Finley of the state Democratic executive committee was notified that Hon. William J. Bryan, three times presidential candidate, would make a speaking tour of the state Oct. 19, 21 and 22. Mr. Finley is engaged in arranging Mr. Bryan's itinerary, which will be announced later.

Drowned In Fainting Fit.
Bellaire, O., Oct. 8.—While en route to the grocery to make some purchases, Milton McCabe, 23, a farmer, was attacked by a fainting fit, to which he was subject, and fell into Pipe creek, below this city, and was drowned.

Stark County Surveyor Dead.
Akron, O., Oct. 8.—T. D. Paul, 64, Stark county surveyor and Democratic candidate for re-election, died at his home in this city from a complication of diseases. He was well known throughout the county.

Spurned by Girl; Kills Self.
Marysville, O., Oct. 8.—Because a girl in Marion, O., with whom he was in love, refused to marry him, Herbert Vestal, a young man of Richmond, Union county, committed suicide by shooting himself.

Stabbed During Quarrel.
Springfield, O., Oct. 8.—Warren Cussick of Dayton was stabbed and seriously wounded during a dispute in a saloon here, and Frank Peters is under arrest, charged with cutting to kill.

Girl Shot by Sister Dead.
Cleveland, O., Oct. 8.—Mary Macchinsky 19, accidentally shot by her sister Annie, 9, died in St. Alexis' hospital. After searching several hours, police found the revolver in a gully in the rear of the Macchinsky home, where the girl's mother threw it after the shooting.

Auto Struck by Freight Train.
Cleveland, O., Oct. 8.—Dr. and Mrs. Charles T. Wagner and their little child experienced a narrow escape from death here when their automobile was struck by a Lake Shore freight train. All were thrown from the machine, which was demolished, but none sustained injuries that necessitated hospital treatment.

Former Senator Pfeiffer Dead.
Topeka, Kan., Oct. 8.—William A. Pfeiffer, the first and only Populist senator and founder of the Populist party, died at the home of his daughter at Grenola, Kan. He was elected to the senate in this state. Pfeiffer was born in Pennsylvania in 1831.

Embezzlement Charged.
Providence, R. I., Oct. 8.—Indictments were found by the grand jury against Jacob Irving Davis and Alfred W. Quigg, in connection with the alleged embezzlement of $40,000 from the Ancient Order of United Workmen.

Fifty Killed in Battle.
El Paso, Tex., Oct. 8.—A report reached here that federal troops had defeated the Zapatistas at Cholula and driven them from the city. Fifty were killed in the engagement. A large amount of plunder was carried away by the retreating revolutionists.

VOGUE, THE LEADING FASHION JOURNAL, TELLS HOW TO HAVE CURLY HAIR.

"Though skeptical ones may doubt the statement that an English hair tonic of well-known fame will make the hair curly, it is nevertheless true that it has that effect in the majority of cases. It stimulates the growth, restores vitality and is delightful to use, making the hair look twice as thick by reason of the fluffy appearance it has when the scalp has been well massaged. This tonic was originally the private formula of a famous English Hair Specialist but can now be generally obtained."

The above editorial comment appeared in the March issue of Vogue and refers to Mrs. Mason's Old English Hair Tonic.

Mrs. Kate Seaton Mason, who originated this tonic and her Old English Shampoo Cream is the "famous English Hair Specialist" referred to in the Vogue article.

These preparations may now be obtained in Washington Court House at the drug store of Blackmer and Tanquary.

Keeps Your Stove "Always Ready for Company"

A bright, clean, glossy stove is the joy and pride of every housekeeper. But it is hard to keep a stove nice and shiny—unless Black Silk Stove Polish is used. Here is the reason: Black Silk Stove Polish sticks right to the iron. It doesn't rub off or dust off. Its shine lasts four times longer than the shine of any other polish. You only need to polish once-fourth as often, yet your stove will be cleaner, brighter and better looking than it has been since you first bought it. Use

"All remedies and doctors treatment failed till we tried Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and cured him with one box." Cures burns, boils, skin eruptions, piles. 25c at Blackmer & Tanquary.

BEST TO AVOID MUSHROOMS
Really Have Little Value as Sustenance and There is Always Danger of Poison.

There are in this country more than one hundred edible species of mushrooms. The popular distinction between mushroom and toadstool is one of name only. Many of the supposedly inferior specimens have proved on careful examination to be harmless, whereas some of those which bear an extremely close family resemblance to favored articles of diet are the carriers of danger in the form of exceedingly powerful poisons. Let him, therefore, who lacks the training requisite for the unfailing detection and identification of species carefully refrain from excursions into a field of uncertainty so fraught with danger. Mushrooms form an unusually nutritious and sustaining diet. A well-known botanist says that mushrooms might properly be called vegetable meat and used as a substitute for animal food. It is doubtful, however, if this is true. The more we learn of mushrooms the more it becomes apparent that they are scarcely different as regards dietary virtues from the general run of the green vegetables which have never achieved the distinction of any unique or superior nutritive properties. They belong rather to that large group of food materials which we consume for reasons quite apart from the body. —Journal of the American Medical Association.

Young Girl Kidnaped By Two Men

Cleveland, O., Oct. 2.—Celia Petikka, 13, on her way to school, was seized by two men, her hands and feet tied, gagged and put into a wagon. Near Berea the child, according to the story she told A. H. Hudson, to whose house she made her way, managed to loose her bonds and slip from the wagon. James Petikka, the father, went to Berea and brought the child back.

UNREST IN ENGLAND

Duke of Marlborough Blames
Dearth of Cottages for Evil.

Absence of Homes for Humblest
Classes of Rural Workers Is Depopulating the Country—"Week Enders" Is Chief Cause.

London.—When the duke of Marlborough, in his recent articles in the Daily Mail on "Industrial Unrest in England," traced the source of the trouble back to the dearth of cottages for country laborers, it seemed rather fanciful, but since his articles were printed, no small amount of evidence has appeared to back up his theory.

One of the most interesting contributions to the discussion comes from "A Country Parson," who says that the dearth of homes for the humblest classes or rural workers is a crying evil. According to him, it is depopulating the country.

Marriages among the young people are at a discount, he says. Twenty years ago, in his parish, the registers show there was a yearly average of six marriages of agricultural laborers. During the last eight years this average has been reduced to one. Assuredly this statement backs up the duke of Marlborough.

The young men in the country have no inducements to marry there and no homes to settle down in. They flock to the cities, they crowd out the city born of weaker physique, they lower the standard of wages by glutting the labor market. Then come poverty, strike, paralysis of business, general all-round disaster.

But why should there be a dearth of rural cottages. Why does not the law of supply and demand operate to end it in short order? One reason seems to be that all sorts of outsiders are competing with the agricultural laborer in the way of a cottage that may exist or be built in rural regions.

Behind this is the fundamental cause, the fact that the agricultural laborer is so badly paid or paid in such an impractical way that he is not able to pay anything like a decent rent for a home—anything like the rent which will return even the smallest interest on the builder's investment.

Illustrating the competition with the laborer for the rural cottage, the case of the week ender is cited. The week ender of moderate means wants a very cheap place where he can run down in fine weather and spend a day or two at what is to him merely nominal expense. He finds a laborer's cottage picturesquely situated; he goes to the landlord and offers a grotesquely low rent for it, say five shillings or $1.25 a week on condition that it be restored or fixed up—put in good order. The landlord cheerfully accepts the offer and puts the cottage in first-rate condition, for the rent of the city man offers, absurd though it may seem to a New Yorker, is anywhere from three to five times as much as the agricultural laborer can afford to pay.

Russia's Hunting Bag.
The hunting season in Russia has come to an end, and the following particulars, says a St. Petersburg correspondent, relate to the booty, which has far surpassed that of the preceding year.

The largest number of animals killed are squirrels, which head the list with 4,255,300 victims. The most sought after fur is of course black sable, of which 12,250 were caught. Last year a clear profit of 2,500,000 francs was made on sables, which fetched as much as 1,000 francs apiece.

The remainder of the "bag" was composed of 200,000 ermine, 1,500 brown bears, 180,000 skunk, 100 blue foxes and 16,500 gray wolves.

VOGUE, THE LEADING FASHION JOURNAL, TELLS HOW TO HAVE CURLY HAIR.

"Though skeptical ones may doubt the statement that an English hair tonic of well-known fame will make the hair curly, it is nevertheless true that it has that effect in the majority of cases. It stimulates the growth, restores vitality and is delightful to use, making the hair look twice as thick by reason of the fluffy appearance it has when the scalp has been well massaged. This tonic was originally the private formula of a famous English Hair Specialist but can now be generally obtained."

The above editorial comment appeared in the March issue of Vogue and refers to Mrs. Mason's Old English Hair Tonic.

Mrs. Kate Seaton Mason, who originated this tonic and her Old English Shampoo Cream is the "famous English Hair Specialist" referred to in the Vogue article.

These preparations may now be obtained in Washington Court House at the drug store of Blackmer and Tanquary.
